Weekly Water Tests Planned

HARRISBURG (AP)—A plan for weekly testing of state water supplies for radioactive fallout from Soviet nuclear tests was announced Tuesday by the State Health Department.

Karl M. Mason, director of environmental health, said the program is to determine whether the Russian tests cause any appreciable increase of radioactive materials in water.

Samples of raw water will be taken daily from five principal bodies of water in the state—the Monongahela River at Pittsburgh, the Beaver River at Beaver Falls, the Allegheny River at Wilkesburg, Lake Erie at Erie and the Susquehanna River at Columbia, Lancaster county.

Analyses of Delaware and Schuylkill River water are made by the city of Philadelphia with reports sent weekly to the Health Department.

Allies Reject Soviet Charges

MOSCOW (AP)—The United States, Britain and France have rejected Soviet charges that the flight of two West German fighter planes to West Berlin Sept. 14 was a warlike act.

In similar notes replying to Moscow's protests of Sept. 17, the Western Big Three advised the Soviets Tuesday to avoid getting excited over such incidents.

They said the two jets had clearly lost their way, run out of fuel and had to land.

Kennedy's Plane Blows A Tire

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—President Kennedy's plane blew out a tire on the main landing wheel when it hit the runway here at 2:53 p.m. But the President and his wife disembarked safely.

As the plane taxied from the end of the runway to the ramp, five airport fire trucks followed it and parked close by.

The President and Mrs. Kennedy flew here from New York to spend a week's vacation at the summer home of Mrs. Kennedy's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss.

The Morehead City Hospital said several casualties were brought in. An attaché was unable to say the nature of their injuries or how many there were.

A paymaster of the ship, D. C. Newton of Savannah, Ga., said he was certain some crewmen were unable to get off the vessel after the fire broke out. He said 18 were aboard at the time.

Swiftwater Firm Receives Multi-Million Dollar U.S. Allocation For Expansion

(Special to The Daily Record) WASHINGTON — The Surgeon General's office has advised Rep. Francis E. Walter it will spend $5,816,300 in the development of vaccines at the National Drug Co. plant in Swiftwater.

The money will be spent over a five-year period, Major Irwin Lee, contracting officer for the Surgeon General's office, told Walter Tuesday.

At the same time, C. M. McCallister, president of National Drug, a division of Richardson-Merrell, Inc., told Walter the firm will erect "the finest biological laboratory in the country" at Swiftwater. The firm will spend $2,000,000 on the laboratory.

Major Lee and McCallister said the program calls for "mass production of vaccines against infectious diseases to be used on American troops throughout the world."

McCallister said some of the top researchers in the country will be brought to Monroe County to supervise the operation. At the same time he has assured the congressman the company will hire and train technicians from the Monroe County area to man the laboratory.

The permanent work force at National Drug now numbers approximately 100 persons. It is anticipated that the work force will be doubled within the next year.

Walter said additional work will be made available to area craftsmen, who will be hired to build the laboratory.

National Drug Co., Walter reported, is now operating under a basic contract amounting to $825,700, which expires this Saturday.

The Surgeon General's office was asked to extend the contract and the additional supplemental agreement extends the contract for three years and nine months and calls for an immediate appropriation amounting to $1,494,000 from fiscal year 1961 and fiscal year 1962 funds. The remainder will come from additional appropriations.

"This is entirely a research project," Walter said yesterday. "Construction of the laboratory should begin in about two months."

National Drug will build, equip and staff the multiple isolation facility designed for simultaneous research and development work on four separate viruses, bacteria or rickettsia, Walter reported.

Kennedy Signs Disarmament Agency Bill

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy signed a bill Tuesday creating a disarmament agency, which he called a symbol of U.S. desire to disarm mankind of the weapons of war. It's name, a compromise of House and Senate versions, is "Arms Control and Disarmament Agency."

As he signed the new agency into law, Moscow radio was reporting Soviet rejection of Kennedy's disarmament proposals to the United Nations.

The legislation to set up an arms control and disarmament agency was passed by Congress three days ago, and was the first bill the President has signed outside Washington since he took office.

Kennedy said the new agency offers "renewed hope for agreement and progress in the critical battle for the survival of mankind."

Purpose of the new agency is to further a disarmament program which the United States could place before the world to offset the threat of future war. It is designed to keep abreast of all developments in the complex field of general disarmament, with an eye toward any possible method to eliminate arms as instruments of national policy.

Named to head the new agency was William C. Foster, 64, undersecretary of commerce, economic cooperation administrator and deputy secretary of defense under President Harry S. Truman. Foster is a Republican, and currently is board chairman and president of the United Nuclear Corp., an organization for the development of peaceful uses for atomic energy.

Kennedy said the new arms control agency is in line with this country's ultimate goal—"a world free from war and free from the dangers and burdens of armament."

He hailed it as an indication of bipartisan American concern "for this effort to disarm mankind with adequate safeguards." And Kennedy said it "symbolizes the importance the United States places on arms control and disarmament in its foreign policy."

Among those present for the signing ceremony was John J. McCloy, the Kennedy administration's chief disarmament adviser. He told newsmen he thought he had detected "some changes" in the Soviet attitude toward disarmament.

But he added with a smile: "The proof of the pudding is in the eating."

Congress Wades Through Last Minute Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The adjournment-bound Congress voted close to $4 billion Tuesday night to finance foreign aid this year.

Controversy that had buffeted the measure for months suddenly subsided as the House and Senate in a single afternoon and evening.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., the Senate minority leader, hailed it as "a happy compromise," as the Senate endorsed it by a voice vote, after only 30 minutes of discussion devoid of any protesting speeches.

The House had approved the same measure earlier.

The actual total in the bill, drafted in a Senate-House conference committee, added up to $3,914,600,000.

Members began talking hopefully of ending the session Tuesday night.

The foreign aid figure represents a compromise between the $3,637,500,000 voted by the House and the $4,196,600,000 approved by the Senate.

One of the last arguments to be settled involved a $40-million fund to finance the President's new Peace Corps through its first year of operation.

The conferees compromised on $30 million for the agency. The Senate had approved the full $40 million and the House had voted nothing.

Under the package settlement the President's foreign aid administrators also would be permitted to dip more liberally into funds left over from last year. The House originally imposed a $50-million limit on the use of unobligated funds.

After breaking through the foreign aid logjam, Congress had only a few loose ends remaining for disposal. An indication that the session was approaching its close came when House members fell to making flowery speeches about their presiding officer.

The tributes in this case were directed to Rep. John W. McCormack, D-Mass., who has been acting speaker since Speaker Sam Rayburn went home to Texas to get some rest.

The House was waiting at the time for the Senate to act on the last of the appropriation bills, a $1,060,894,578 supplemental measure carrying funds for scores of government agencies and programs.

Moving along just ahead of this was a $3,908,880,980 public works appropriation which won final approval and was sent to the White House. This bill ended up closer to the $3,940,926,880 originally voted by the Senate than to the $3,662,701,380 allowed by the House. It contains money for flood control, rivers and harbors, reclamation and atomic energy projects.

The Senate debated off and on a bill designed to ease the tax burden on Da Pont stockholders who stand to receive $3 million shares of General Motors stock under an antitrust divestiture proceeding.

It passed without debate a bill authorizing the Treasury to assign a number to every taxpayer as a means of keeping closer check on income tax returns.

Senate passage completed congressional action and the bill was sent to the White House. It is expected to yield up to $5 billion in taxes which have gone uncollected. In most cases the taxpayer's Social Security number will be the one assigned to his internal revenue file.

Soviets Ask Explanation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Ever so slightly the Soviet Union seemed Tuesday night to edge a cautious bid to the West looking toward easing the imminent threat of nuclear war over Berlin.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, addressing the U.N. General Assembly in reply to President Kennedy, left no doubt that in the Soviet view the twin

'Only A Sign'
To Negotiate

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The United States seeks "only a sign from those who speak for the Communist world" that they want to negotiate in good faith, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said Tuesday.

"If negotiation between governments is to have any true meaning, it must be conducted in an atmosphere of reason and of responsibility," Johnson told the Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association.

Negotiation, Johnson said, "must speak the language of honorable compromise. It must shun all hints of a negotiation conducted under an ultimatum."

He added that negotiators must grant concessions for the sake of agreement "and not merely grab every concession that can be extorted by the display of power or the tricks of diplomacy."

"We seek only a sign from those who speak for the Communist world that they are ready to respect these principles and will not simply use the conference table as the forum to ratify their own demands and gain new advantages," the vice president said.

Johnson's remarks came in what he termed a review of the world situation. It followed a chart-illustrated outline of what he described as major accomplishments of the Kennedy administration.

Johnson said Congress passed 11 major bills in its first session after election of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, "and we thought we had saved the republic."

In the first congressional session under the Kennedy administration, 33 major bills have been passed, he said.

He said net farm income has increased 10 per cent over 1960 to $12.8 billion—the highest in eight years.

In a word, Recognize that Communist East Germany exists and the Russians may be ready to talk.

There seemed to be a cajoling note in the Soviet address, which stressed that Moscow would have "no alternative" to going ahead on its own if the West refused to agree to the idea of peace treaties with both Germans.

There would be no question in this, he argued, of blocking Berlin or banning access to it. Indeed, he said, West Berlin as a "free city" would have the right to establish ties with any country, and only one thing would be required.

"That is," he continued, "unqualified respect for the sovereignty of the state (Communist East Germany) through whose territory run the land, air and water communications linking West Berlin with the outside world."

Dr. Charles Wolbers, newly appointed professor for Health and Physical Education at East Stroudsburg State College, will be in charge of a project to evaluate youth fitness in six public schools in north-eastern Pennsylvania.

Dr. Wolbers is exceptionally well qualified to direct this program since he has conducted research in regard to physical fitness and has directed both high school and college programs of physical education.

A new set of fitness tests to be used in the public schools of the nation have been devised by the President's Council on Youth Fitness. It is the purpose of these tests to uncover the children, both boys and girls, who are underdeveloped physically.

Special programs of physical education will be initiated for such children to bring them up to a level that is considered normal for their respective age groups.

Dr. Wolbers will work with the City Directors in Allentown, Bethlehem, Easton, Wilkes-Barre, and two other schools, to be selected, in the administration and interpretation of the tests.

He will also serve as an advisor in the development of fitness programs for all children in the schools which participate in the project.

The State Department of Pub-

Berlin and German questions are the dominating issues.

Gromyko seemed to seize upon one statement made by the young U.S. President in a policy speech to the assembly Monday. The President had said he believed agreement is possible which would protect West Berlin and Western rights "while recognizing the historic and legitimate interests of others in assuring European security."

"Yes," said Gromyko, "we are in favor of that. But what does it mean to assure the interests of European security under the present conditions?"

In his view, that would mean to "sign a peace treaty which took shape in Europe and Germany as a result of World War II and to this end to call a peace conference in the near future."

But, like others, Gromyko asked what the Kennedy words meant. To many observers, those particular words of the President had sounded intentionally ambiguous.

The Soviets seemed to choose to interpret them as a possibility that the West would recognize the existing situation in the heart of Europe as the result of World War II: Existing boundaries of Communist states, the existence of an East German state under Communist rule.

Premier Khrushchev now has removed the year-end deadline from his threats to go ahead on his own with a Soviet solution to the Berlin issue. It would seem to follow that Gromyko's statement that European security required the treaty formula was at least subject to negotiation.

There seemed to be a cajoling note in the Soviet address, which stressed that Moscow would have "no alternative" to going ahead on its own if the West refused to agree to the idea of peace treaties with both Germans.

There would be no question in this, he argued, of blocking Berlin or banning access to it. Indeed, he said, West Berlin as a "free city" would have the right to establish ties with any country, and only one thing would be required.

Judge Gets Plans For Jail Refacing

PLANS for alterations and improvements to Monroe County Jail, estimated to cost $71-312, were presented by county commissioners to Judge Fred W. Davis with a petition asking court approval of the project.

It includes construction of an enclosed exercise yard at the rear of the jail, installation of security doors at the rear of the cellblock and remodeling of steel fire escape stairs.

Kiefer said second phase planning for alterations of the kitchen and inmates' washroom and improvement of juvenile and women's quarters is about 95 per cent complete and specifications are half finished.

H. Ray Saunders, county clerk, told the court the project has been approved by the State Dept. of Justice, Dept. of Labor and Industry and State Art Commission.

ESC Teachers Speak On Fitness

DR. LURA EVANS and Dr. Charles Wolbers, professors in East Stroudsburg State College Department of Health and Physical Education, were the main speakers at the Lancaster County Teachers Institute.

They spoke on the topic of youth fitness and demonstrated the fitness tests that are to be included in the program of fitness advocated by the Pennsylvania State Department of Public Instruction.

Approximately 900 elementary teachers and 1100 secondary teachers attended sessions Monday.

Bernard Rockavich, consultant from the State Department of Public Instruction, served on a panel with Evans and Wolbers.

Dr. Frank D. Sills, head of ESCC Health and Physical Education, addressed the Berks County Institute. Dr. Sills spoke on the topic "Growth is the Challenge of Today and Tomorrow."

He pointed out the fact that certain types of growth in a civilization may be hazardous if the sound bases upon which the civilization exists are undermined.

He likened Russia's rapid progress, at present, to that of the United States one hundred years ago, and went on to say that there are too many similarities between the United States today and the Roman empire prior to its decadence.

Noting the great concern, at high governmental levels, about the weakness of American youth, Dr. Sills stressed the fact that the adults in our society are setting an extremely poor example and are the ones who must bear the responsibility for preservation of our nation's health and welfare.

Air Pollution A Health Problem

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — Mayor Frank Slattery of Wilkes-Barre said Tuesday the city has a serious health problem in air pollution caused by burning culm banks.

The mayor told a State Air Pollution Commission hearing that the high increase of respiratory disease in the area pointed up a "crying need" for a remedy to the problem.

The mayor was among a group of public officials and community leaders testifying before the commission. State Sen. Martin L. Murray, Luzerne, charged the Glen Aldel Coal Co., with being "negligent and noncooperative" in the culm burning problem. Glen Aldel owns a burning culm bank near its Huber Colliery in Ashley, Murray, who lives in Ashley, said he spoke from first hand observation. He urged the state to take action against Glen Aldel.

The film showed how serious speech defects, many of them connected with cerebral palsy or palate surgery, were treated at the specialized center at the University of Illinois.

Challenge For Peace

The impact of President Kennedy's forceful speech before the United Nations Assembly on Monday is gradually coming into the understanding of the nations and peoples of the world. At first, reaction and comment were a bit slow in coming, but as the importance of the document is realized, it is being hailed all over the world as a bold plan for peace, with the contingent condition of freedom at any cost.

The invitation of Mr. Kennedy to Soviet Russia to join in a "peace race" instead of the present arms race that will eventually lead to world destruction if it is continued, was somewhat of a master stroke. It will challenge the thinking of the Kremlin to turn it down and still keep face before the nations of the earth which are desirous of a lasting peace.

His blunt statement that "The weapons of war must be abolished before they abolish us," was the greatest argument for the broad disarmament program which he proposed. Naturally, as was indicated, the disarmament should begin immediately with a treaty banning nuclear weapons tests under international controls.

In its hour of need, the President gave forceful backing to the United Nations and greatly strengthened the possibility of its effective continuance. In asking the alliance of the non-aligned nations to prevent the replacement of the Secretary-General with a three-member board, he was in point asking the free nations of the world to resist a force that would paralyze the United Nations and make it an ineffective discussion group.

All through his talk, Mr. Kennedy reiterated the willingness of the United States to negotiate world problems in the quest for peace and harmony. He opened the door for Russia and the satellite nations to come in and sit at the conference table.

It is doubtful, judging from past history, that Soviet Russia will cooperate in any of the points or suggestions outlined in the President's talk before the United Nations. It would be a near miracle if it did, but the stand of the free world and its willingness to confer on world problems has been posted in bold and shining letters on the international bulletin board.

Why Not Safety Belts?

If we're going to do something in Pennsylvania and in America about the increasing highway carnage already one of our major national problems, let's take this first sensible and essential step:

Make mandatory installation and use of safety belts on every vehicle—trucks and automobiles alike—on our highways.

Pennsylvania might well start the ball rolling. And why not? The state law requires periodic inspections for safe tires, safe brakes, safe headlight beams, safe steering apparatus and so on. Why shouldn't it require the safety belts on trucks and cars for saving lives?

The idea of safety belts is not new, of course. But it's time that we begin making use of the practical idea. "Seat belts save lives" is no longer a handy slogan. It's a proven fact.

Last year 24,000 people were killed on America's highways. More than 1,250,000 were injured.

Safety and medical people of the country, after years of research, are able to show that if seat belts were used on every vehicle, a minimum 5,000 lives would be saved and 400,000 serious injuries avoided.

A nation-wide program of trying to "sell" the seat-belt idea to motorists has already commenced with the National Safety Council, American Medical Association and the U.S. Public Health Service the principal cooperating organizations.

Most automobile manufacturers have decided to install safety-belt anchorages for front seats in 1962 passenger cars.

The program for persuading motorists to use safety belts is good. That manufacturers will install the anchorages is excellent.

But what is most needed is legislation in Pennsylvania and in every other state of the Union making installation and use of safety belts—in front and rear of every car as well as on trucks—necessary as a condition for using our streets and highways.

This is a dramatic and vitally important question of saving lives.

The Pennsylvania Story

Portuguese In Schools?

By Mason Deminon

Harrisburg — The Portuguese had a word for it—we're not quite sure what it was and it doesn't matter much anyway—but in any event, Pennsylvania now may have a word for the Portuguese.

When we started to write this column we were going to tie in this Portuguese angle with Christopher Columbus—but the lad the history books insist was the one who discovered America back in 1492—our thought (for some reason) being that ole Chris was a Portuguese.

Alas—it's been some years since we crammed the history blue books. We felt shaky on the point. A check with one of the more erudite historical tomes reveals that—alas again—we were indeed wrong. The venerable Mr. Columbus was an Italian (born in Genoa), his yachting spree that led to our shores (and almost got him thrown into the drink to boot by a terrified crew) was financed by Spanish Queen Isabella—and the only point we can find involving the Portuguese is that they too at the time were searching for a new route to India. It seems too that yachtsman Columbus applied to John II of Portugal for funds but was turned down.

Now—what we were going to say, had he been a Portuguese, was that after nearly 500 years school kids in Pennsylvania are going to have the chance to go back to the Portuguese, or something closely akin thereto.

We can't actually say that though—so we won't. What started us on this thought trend though might be of general interest.

The other day, the State Council of Education—a top-policy-making agency for education in Pennsylvania—approved a couple of resolutions "to be submitted to the field for further consideration."

(Or, in less glamorous wordage—to schoolmen throughout the state for their consideration and reaction.)

One "resolving" action resolved that "it shall be permissible to teach" certain additional subjects. One of those subjects was—Portuguese.

Offhand this might well seem to be quite a frivolous item—who wants to learn to speak Portuguese these days when the emphasis is on Russian, Spanish, French and the more aligned "major" languages?

Portugal? A mere (comparatively speaking) pinpoint on the world map.

But here's an interesting thing—and the reason why the Portuguese language is being suggested as an option in Pennsylvania's schools:

More than 50 percent of the people in Latin American countries today speak Portuguese (Christopher Columbus notwithstanding).

Latin and South American in this hemispheric space age are being brought closer and closer to the United States. It is an area this country is pushing hard to develop along allied lines. The economic movement of United States citizens (mostly younger ones) to these fast developing areas has been phenomenal.

The point we are making is that the recommendation by the State Council that the teaching of Portuguese in Pennsylvania schools may seem absurd at first blush—but is it?

This may sound like a lot of Chinese—and speaking of Chinese, that's a second language the State Council is recommending be placed on the "permissible" list in Pennsylvania's public schools!

What's cooking on the China front?

Well—it seems that Washington has been bawling the fact that there aren't enough Americans speaking foreign languages (fluently) with the result that our people get over in the land of rice paddies, for example, and can't even say "nuts" in Chinese. Of course from the diplomatic standpoint the need is pressing.

The U. S. Office of Education some time ago recommended that Chinese be one of the languages offered in public schools throughout the land. With this in mind—plus (amazingly perhaps) requests from within the state for offering the language—the State Council has started to move.

(Just goes to show what Christopher Columbus started)

The Nansen Passport

It is not usual that a passport is named after a man, but after World War I, when large numbers found themselves homeless and helpless, a technique was evolved to give the stateless a document equivalent to a passport and generally recognized. That was the Nansen passport, named after Fridtjof Nansen whose hundredth anniversary will be celebrated on October 10.

Too few have recognized that perhaps the most frightful result of war is statelessness which to many means homelessness. Villages have disappeared; homes have been burned to the ground; all documents are lost. There is no money. What does one do? Where does he live? Where does he go? Where are his relatives and friends?

To this problem, Fridtjof Nansen devoted his life. A Norwegian, Nansen had gained fame as an explorer. He was the first man to cross Greenland. In 1896, aboard a small ship, the Fram, he set off to reach the North Pole and came closer to it than any man had before him.

Nansen's professions were oceanography and diplomacy. He was the Norwegian Minister to Great Britain and then led a diplomatic mission to the United States. From 1920 until his death, he represented Norway at the League of Nations. It was during these years, he devoted himself to the stateless.

War to Nansen was a human not a military problem and it dealt with individual human beings whose lives were suddenly dislocated and disturbed. As Herbert Hoover was concerned with feeding the starving, Nansen sought to find a home for the homeless, to move masses of people who had become what we now-a-days call refugees to some place where they could live normal lives, look after their families, earn a living by their labor and forget the tragic years which uprooted them.

After 1921, when Nansen was appointed High Commissioner for Refugees of the League of Nations, he knew no nationalities, no distinctions between man and man. He only knew that human beings were struggling to survive as persons and that it was his task to help them.

The Nansen passport was accepted by more than 50 governments and many distinguished persons had no other document.

The Nobel Prize was awarded Nansen in 1932 as universal recognition of his labors for the hungry and homeless. There have been too few men like Nansen in our times—too few who lived utterly selfless lives and who devoted themselves wholly to the welfare of those who had been abandoned or for those who could not adjust to the startling changes of this age.

The refugee problem is still with us. All over the world there are refugees from war and revolution and their numbers increase. The United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees has taken on Nansen's noble work. Such countries as Australia and Canada, which need population, open their doors to refugees from all European countries, but we shall soon have a problem of African refugees which will not be so readily solvable.

The 100th anniversary of Nansen's birth to be celebrated on October 10 is a good date to give thought to this problem of man's inhumanity to man. It is a time to think this problem out.

War does not only destroy; it cripples; it leaves men and women helpless. Its greatest cost is homelessness and it is that problem that neither the conqueror nor the vanquished can do much about. The conqueror is disgraced. Besides, he usually has contempt for those whom he conquered. Pity is a rare quality. On the other hand, the vanquished is stunned by the results of war. Often there are marginal people, like Armenians, who are wiped out in large numbers by each conqueror, perhaps because they lie on the highroads of an empire.

For the remote, the distant homeless, we may contribute a few dollars to buy food, but that does not solve their problem, for what they require is a home, a hearth for the family, a place to give birth and a place to die with dignity. For what else is there to the life of man? Whether one is a pauper or a millionaire, these are the ultimate requirements of life. Beyond these there are only degrees of advantage. Less than these is not only poverty but penury.

Out of World War I came two men who understood that it was not geography that moved men; it is a smaller unit—the home and the family. These two men were Fridtjof Nansen and Herbert Hoover.

Dear Mrs. L.: Friends? Tenderizer contains the same papain as papaya leaves, which Hawaiians traditionally wrap around cooking meats. Of course your teeth may miss the exercise they used to get chewing on those old tough cuts!

Dear Doctor: Can pressure from a switchboard operator's headset or eyeglass temple pieces trigger epilepsy convulsions? The temple pieces barely touch the skin.

Dear Mrs. C.: Any sensitive area—and eye-strain, too—can trigger convulsions. Glasses and headset may have polished the skin around your ear into a fine trigger.

Are the lenses correct? Inside out, any "convulsion of feeling nerves" can feel like pain when temple pieces lightly brush the skin.

Raw Eggs Benefit Blood? Dear Doctor: Do raw eggs help make pure blood?

Dear Mrs. E.: Not any more than boiled, fried or poached. It's time to unscramble this Old Wives' tale!

Bothered By Gas? Dear Doctor: I'm constantly bothered by gas moving around in my abdomen. Is there danger of cancer of the liver or bowels?

My diet includes raw fruits, cooked vegetables, fresh lettuces, celery and cabbage.

Dear Mrs. F.: Gas comes either from air or fermenting foods. Trapped in foamy mucus, gas can't escape. A wetting agent Phazyme (R) breaks the foam and lets all the gas out.

Before you buy any pills, try cutting down on fermenting foods like cabbage, beans and starches.

Don't worry about cancer unless the gurgling suddenly stops without any new menu or medicine. Any sudden change raises the question.

Don't Treat Yourself? Dear Doctor: Can you explain the good and evil—if any—of vitamin E? I'm taking vitamin E on my own for muscular build-up.

Dear Mrs. M.: The good? Probably none! The evil? Probably none—except the cost. Self-treatment? Highly dangerous.

Your weakened muscles may point the finger at some easily-treated ailment.

While much is still unknown, your chances for building muscles with vitamin E are slimmer than a muscle fiber!

The Allen-Scott Report

JFK's Idea Grounded

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — The daring proposal that President Kennedy made last winter to organize special anti-guerrilla forces to fight Communist subversion and guerrilla warfare in undeveloped nations hasn't gotten off the ground.

The President's idea is "grounded" in the White House by a controversy raging over the policy that the U.S. should adopt in organizing and using this unconventional type of warfare.

Crux of this sharp battle is a proposal by Dr. Walt Whitman Rostow, special assistant to the President in charge of drafting anti-guerrilla warfare policy. It calls for giving control of this special warfare to an international organization under the United Nations.

Rostow's proposal, outlined at the Army's Special Warfare School, Fort Bragg, N.C., hit the Pentagon like one of Khrushchev's megaton bombs. It caught the Army's limited war planners by complete surprise.

Since the President first made this proposal last February, these planners have shaped plans to set up (1) a powerful anti-guerrilla operating and training division within the Army, and (2) a global system of anti-guerrilla units. These special units would become active combat components of all the alliances of the free world—NATO, SEATO, CENTO, and the Organization of American States.

Rostow's plan would greatly change this concept. Instead of making the anti-guerrilla fight a U.S. directed and controlled war on the Kremlin's world-wide guerrilla operations, Rostow would shift the responsibility to the United Nations—where the Soviets and the neutrals have a tremendous voice.

This crippling possibility has so upset the Joint Chiefs of Staff that they have taken some extraordinary steps to block the Rostow plan. In addition to enlisting the help of General Maxwell D. Taylor, military representative of the President, they have appealed to and won the support of Attorney General Robert Kennedy to fight the Rostow plan.

JCS Proposal — In its place, the team of Taylor, Kennedy, and the JCS are urging President Kennedy to accept a five point anti-guerrilla program. While details of this plan are still classified, its publishable highlights were originally revealed in this column last June and include:

A system of training schools to be established in Latin America, Europe, the Middle East, Africa, and Southeast Asia to instruct officers and other selected military personnel in guerrilla combat units to be immediately organized in South Vietnam, Thailand, Pakistan, Iran, and other countries threatened by Communist infiltration and attack. These special forces would be aggressively used against the Reds.

All the Pro-Western Alliances — NATO, SEATO, CENTO, and the Organization of American States — to establish and maintain a considerable number of specially trained and equipped anti-guerrilla troops. These forces would be available to any nation in the event of Red attack. For example: Should Communist-imperiled South Vietnam ask for such support, it would be provided by SEATO and the U.S.

The U.S. to organize, train, and maintain special guerrilla warfare units made up of refugees from Communist-ruled countries. In effect, these forces would constitute an anti-red foreign legion to be available wherever such a threat arises within the orbits of NATO, SEATO, CENTO, and OAS.

Special anti-guerrilla troops in the U.S. Army to be increased from 3,000 to 10,000. Most of them are carefully selected officers and enlisted men of the regular Army.

Gathering Support — Rostow, who isn't one to take anything sitting down, is battling back.

He is enlisting support for his proposal from Secretary of State Dean Rusk, McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the President in charge of International Affairs, and Senator J. William Fulbright, D. Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Rostow is also using the long distance telephone to urge officials of some of the major free foundations, that usually support the international approach, to get behind his anti-guerrilla warfare plan.

Outcome of this inter-administration battle is still uncertain. However, supporters of the JCS plan believe the President is leaning toward their proposal. They cite the fact that he named two of their advocates, General Taylor and Attorney General Kennedy, to a cabinet-level group to give him a program for waging psychological and political warfare. This type of warfare, they point out, is tied very closely to guerrilla warfare.

Ghost Writers—Author of Mrs. Lyndon Johnson's recent speech in New York City was Edward R. Murrow, Director of the United States Information Agency. In May 1957, Vice President Johnson, then Senate Majority Leader, made a speech on the Senate floor saying that he couldn't depend on anyone at USIA to answer any questions accurately or to supply any information for his committee...

General Lauris Norstad has protested to Secretary of Defense McNamara the tenor of remarks attributed in the press to Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester regarding the use of 150 soldiers in Europe in shooting the film, "The Longest Day." Sylvester commented that the Pentagon concurred in General Norstad's recommendation for "military cooperation with General Norstad's friend, Darryl Zanuck."

General Norstad questioned the gratuitous reference by Sylvester to his friendship with Zanuck. It now appears very likely that Defense Secretary McNamara will recommend to President Kennedy that at least part, if not all, of the $520 million extra voted by Congress for B-52 production and the $180 million in excess of the President's request for the B-70, super-bomber, should be spent.

Frankly, madam—we're ashamed to take your money."

Editor, The Daily Record

This letter concerns the newly organized Barbershop Singing Chorus of Stroudsburg, which belongs to the National Barbershop Society (Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America).

The Stroudsburg Chorus was organized in February, 1961, and now has 20 active members. We meet each Tuesday at the Stroudsburg Methodist Church and need more members.

The group sings four-part harmony, namely tenor, lead, baritone and bass. We have a music teacher as director, and also a voice teacher helping us.

Although we have been in operation for more than seven months, many people don't know of our chorus. We truly want more local fellows to join and sing with us. You do not have to know how to read music. The desire to sing is all that is needed.

Since February, we have had the Lebanon, Pa., and Hazleton, Pa., choruses sing with us in Stroudsburg. We have had two quartets from Allentown visit us, and also three quartets from Hazleton and one from Scranton. Our chorus traveled to Allentown in May for their annual show, and are going to the annual show in Hazleton in October.

This is truly a fine organization to belong to and are striving to have an excellent chorus in Stroudsburg. Our directors are qualified and more members will put us in fine shape.

We hope to have a barbershop

Dear Abby

Tell The Truth

Dear Abby: I did a very foolish thing, and now I don't know how to get out of it. My father doesn't allow me to go with boys who are not of my religion (Jewish). I fell for this Italian boy named "Graziano," and told my father his name was "Ginsburg." My father has seen him only once for a quick hello and goodbye. Pretty soon my father will see him again, and start asking questions. If my father finds out I lied, I will be the first teen-ager in orbit. What should I do?

STARTED SOMETHING
Dear Started: Tell your father the truth before he finds out himself. You might still be the first teen-ager in orbit, but you'll go with a clear conscience.

Dear Abby: There seems to be more "double-ring" wedding ceremonies all the time. What is the reason for this? When I see a man wearing a wedding ring I personally get the impression that he is sort of hen-pecked.

MRS. P.

Dear Mrs. P.: Henpecked? On the contrary, I'd say his wife is no dumb cluck!

Dear Abby: You printed a letter signed "Looking Ahead," and you agreed that married children should be more attentive to their in-laws. Here is my situation: Both my mother-in-law and my mother live in the same city. My husband insists that we spend all our visiting time with his mother, so we seldom spend any time with my mother. His mother insists that I be with him when he visits her because there are always other relatives there, and it doesn't "look well" for me not to be present.

My mother is no dumb bunny, but she is very understanding, so she never says anything, but I know how she must hurt inside. She suffered as much when I was born as my husband's mother did when he was born. I respect my husband's family, but I am getting a little bitter. He sees his mother any time he pleases—I don't want to have to look at mine in her casket. LOOKING BOTH WAYS

Kilauea Volcano Erupts In Hawaii

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — Lava spurted up 15 to 100 feet yesterday from unpredictable Kilauea Volcano. It was the third eruption in three days.

Farmers of Pahoa, a village of 1,100 on the slopes of Kilauea, were ready to evacuate if lava threatens. Three other small farming villages were evacuated as the result of other recent eruptions and a series of earthquakes.

A tremor Sunday cracked the foundation of a Hilo school housing 87 evacuees from the villages of Kauealeu, Ophikao and Kalapana.

The newest eruption was only 12 miles from Pahoa. Ten miles from the village the farming community of Kapoho once stood. It was buried under 35 feet of lava in 1960.

TWO SIDES OF THE COIN

The facts are indisputable: low profits choke company growth, reduce job opportunities, seriously hamper research and development, and often force a firm to lower the quality of its product or service.

Now look at the opposite side of the coin. With satisfactory earnings, a company can utilize its research breakthroughs to improve its product or service... and still do it economically, despite constantly rising costs of labor and materials. What's more, the successful company grows and in so doing creates new jobs at good pay, invests in new plants and equipment, thus providing employment for people in many other businesses.

Firms with adequate earnings do well by everybody—their customers, their employees, the community, you.

These things are as true of the telephone business as they are of any other.

Matching Color

IF YOU'RE planning to buy new kitchen appliances in color, it's easier to pick the color you want and then repaint your kitchen in a color that goes well with it than to let the present decor dictate your appliance purchase. The reason is simple. Appliances come in only a few colors, while the number of enamel colors from which you can choose runs into the hundreds. It will cost about $10 to repaint your kitchen with quality enamel.

The House Of The Week

A Home You Would Be Proud To Own

By JULES LOH

THE MINIMUM house—one that provides no more than the basic necessities for the modern family of, say, four or five—needs to add up to a big zero in comfort, convenience and in what housing developers call "curb appeal."

In the hands of an expert architect, the minimum house can become as attractive and livable a home as House of the Week B-35.

The house contains only 1,221 square feet of living area in modest dimensions of 46 feet four inches wide by 32 feet four inches. But it has two covered porches for outdoor relaxing, an attached garage, plus a number of optional features such as a patio and barbecue which could be added if the budget can stand it.

Architect Herman H. York who designed B-35, (and who lectures at many home buyers' conferences) is convinced that even small homes can, if designed properly, meet all the needs of the up-to-date family.

"The appearance of your house has a good deal to do with your standing in the community," said York. "Consequently the exterior features and certain interior comforts have become as important to today's home as the front door."

From the outside, B-35 certainly fills the bill with its covered porch, or loggia, its long flower box emphasizing the width, and its pleasing combination of vertical and horizontal wood siding.

And an excellent interior plan makes maximum use of every square inch, providing the most in comfort for the amount of space. All the rooms are adequate: in fact the 13 feet 4 inch by 18 feet living room and the 11 foot by 13 inches family room-kitchen are good-sized in any league. The bedrooms likewise are roomy.

A split bath, accessible from literally every room in the house as well as the rear patio, is a nifty feature which makes one bath do the work of two. There are two entrances, and the vanity is separated from the bathroom area by a sliding door.

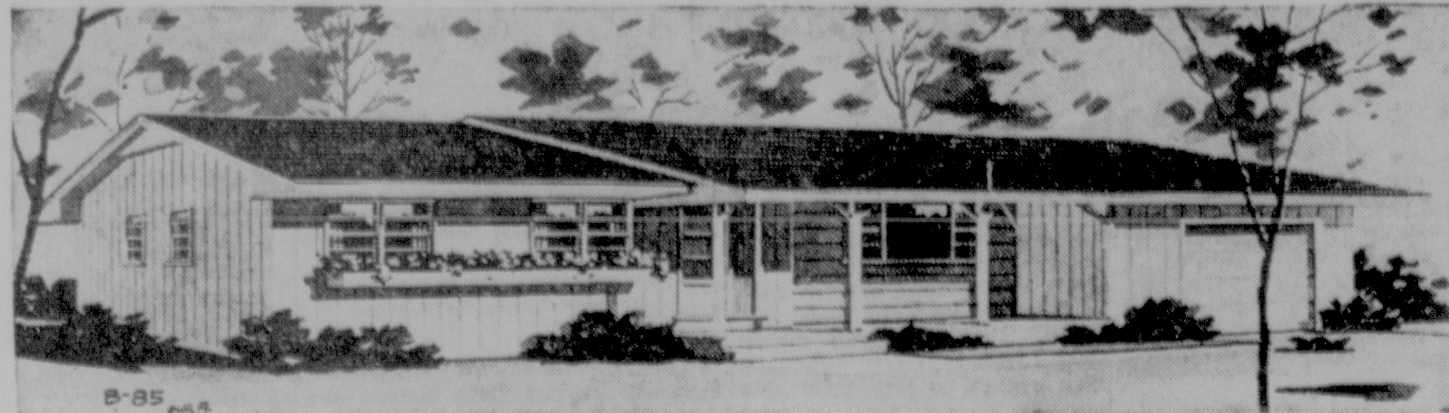

The house has a full basement besides adequate closets, so storage is no problem. Other bonus features are the entrance foyer, not usually found in small homes; and sheltered entrances both front and rear. The rear covered porch, incidentally, can be screened if desired.

Additional Details

While this minimum house does provide all the necessities a modern family absolutely needs, Architect York suggests a number of optional features which could be added — some of them later, if need be — to increase the enjoyment of the home.

1. A fireplace could be installed in the living room by widening the garage to provide space for the chimney. This would add 2' to the width of the house.

2. A two-car garage, rather than a single garage, would increase the width of the house about nine feet. The 225 square feet of the single garage, incidentally, are not included in

MINIMUM HOME; MAXIMUM APPEAL — This house contains only 1,211 square feet of living area, but it has three bedrooms, a split bath which does the work of two, plus a number of bonus features seldom found in small homes. Architect Herman H. York also suggests a number of ways to improve the home, if the budget can stand it.

the 1,221 square feet of living area.

3. Exterior brick or stone can be substituted for wood. In this case, the builder can make slight dimensional changes. (The architect will include detail for this revision with his working drawings.)

4. One or more interior walls paneled in wood not only would add interest but would reduce maintenance. The bow window area of the family room would be especially attractive if finished in wood: the far wall of the living room is another suggestion; and wood paneled halls always are a good idea if the family includes small children with sticky fingers.

There are any number of other ways to improve this well-planned home—a basement recreation room, screened porch, attractive landscaping, fences, and so forth — but just as it is, it's a home anyone could be proud of.

B-35 STATISTICS

A minimum house, containing three bedrooms, split bath, living room, family room—kitchen, two covered porches, single garage, full basement, in 1,221 square feet not including 225 square foot garage. Dimensions are 46 feet four inches wide by 32 feet four inches deep.

Addition of living room fireplace would add two feet to width. Double garage instead of single would increase width about nine feet. Brick or stone could be substituted for wood exterior if desired; architect would provide detail for minor dimensional changes.

Smooth Tops Are Easy To Clean

SUMMER housekeeping can be kept to a minimum by clearing rooms of dust catchers and putting protective finishes on smooth — surfaced areas, according to the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

Hot-weather cleaning short cuts are easier to develop in homes with smooth-finished woodwork, washable draperies, solid vinyl floors and smooth upholstery.

Grease-proof and stain resistant floor tiles such as Kentele solid vinyl require only damp mopping from time to time and colors will remain bright and new.

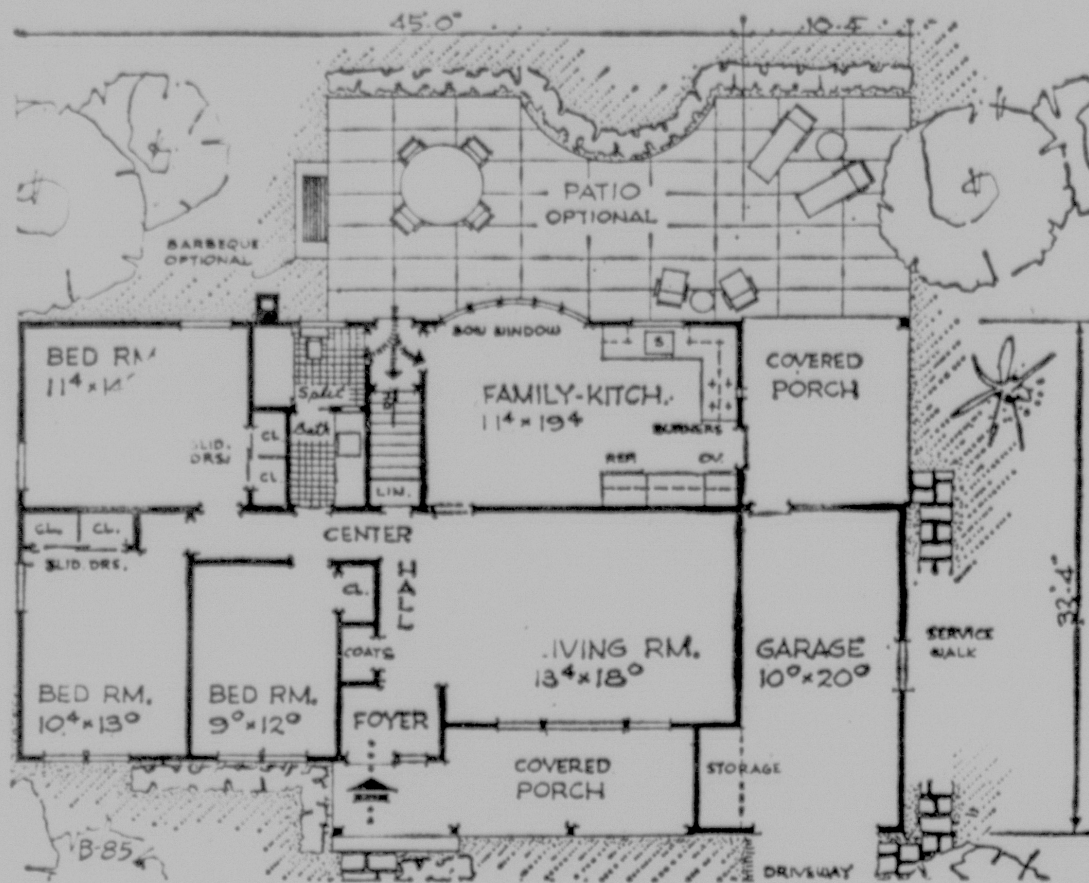

Wax Lightly

Plaster, painted wood and other smooth surfaces can be waxed lightly with a no-rub wax with mild soap suds. This will eliminate a need for further cleaning for weeks and, in some cases, months. Occasional dust can be wiped off the waxed surfaces with a damp cloth.

Another way to reduce the housecleaning burden is to close all windows during the day to keep dust from entering the house. This also will keep rooms cool, provided the windows are left open through the night. Window shades also should be kept closed during the day to exclude direct sunlight which would warm the rooms.

Using washable slipcovers will eliminate the need to clean furniture and covers on lampshades will keep them from becoming soiled.

In the past 16 years, the Republic of Liberia has increased foreign trade over 300 per cent.

FLOOR PLANS—Excellent design makes maximum use of every inch of the 1,221 square feet in this house. Garage adds 225 square feet to over-all area. Note split bath, with two entrances and sliding divider separating vanity from bathtub area, enabling single bath to do the work of two. House has full basement, not shown in plan.

Special Effects With Wall Paint

THERE ARE a variety of decorative, unusual styles for the painted wall. Among these are the two-tone stipple, the stripe pattern, the rough plaster-like finish of texture paint, and the gay design of the multi-color paints. All are beautiful. All are practical. They provide a durable finish that resists wear, and their attractive patterns hide dirt marks and small surface irregularities, the Nation Paint, Varnish & Lacquer Association suggests.

The two-tone stipple effect is achieved in two steps. First, paint the wall in the chosen background color and let it dry thoroughly. Next, generously brush out the stippling color — either contrasting or harmonious — onto a piece of metal, wood or heavy cardboard. Use a quality alkyd or oil base paint — latexes dry too quickly for stippling. Take a slightly moistened sponge and dip it into the brushed out paint. Press against the wall. The color will be transferred in an irregular pattern to the base coat. Continue until the entire wall is stippled.

If you prefer, you can also use a special stippling brush or roller to produce the pattern. When the wall has been painted the background color and is dry, the stippling color is then brushed or rolled on. While it is still wet, pat the wall with the stippling brush or go over the surface with the stippling roller. The result will be small areas of the under color showing through, creating the irregular pattern.

Texture paints produce a rough plaster-like finish which will complement any decor style. They are particularly ideal for old, scarred walls because their special heavy consistency fills small holes and cracks, eliminating the need for replastering. Texture paints are available in ready mixed form, and there are also special texture powders which can be added to other paints to produce the same finish. Both types come in a wide selection of colors.

Apply the texture paint by brush. While the wall or wall area is still wet, go over the surface with a sponge, whisk broom, comb or other object which will create a design. You can also use a special roller to achieve the finished pattern.

Multi-color paints make it possible for you to apply two or more colors simultaneously. Most multi-color paints are applied by spray; some can be applied by brush. There are a variety of color combinations available, including the more formal which contain silver or gold flecks.

Stripped walls are easy to achieve. Use masking tape as your guide. First, paint the wall in the chosen background color and let it dry. Next, apply strips of masking tape to the surface to form strips of the desired width. Paint the exposed areas in the chosen color or colors. When dry, remove the tape. Your walls will be gayly striped.

All of these handsome wall effects can be done by the amateur with ease. The important factor is the use of only quality paint. With a quality paint you will get the hiding power, color retention and durability that make a successful, professional looking job.

Remember to prepare the surface properly. After cleaning, fill holes and cracks with commercial filler and sand smooth, unless you are going to use a texture paint.

Alcohol Spots — Rub with a cloth treated with liquid paste wax, silver polish or boiled linseed oil, or with a cloth dampened slightly with ammonia.

Animal and Diaper Stains — If not of long standing they often can be removed by the same treatment used for ink stains. Should they resist cleaning, replace the affected flooring pieces.

Heel Marks and Caster Marks — Rub vigorously with fine steel wool dipped in floor cleaner. Wipe dry and polish.

Helpful Hints On Cleaning Spots On Hardwood Floors

IF YOU'RE familiar with recommended first-aid treatment for your fine oak floors, there's no need to cry over spilled milk—or spilled grease or ink or even cigarette burns, for that matter.

Such is the advice of floor maintenance experts, who point out that most stains and other marks caused by household accidents can be removed so that the natural beauty of the wood remains unmarred.

Here are remedies for a few of the more common floor "injuries." The treatments are recommended in a new booklet, "How to Keep Oak Floors Beautiful," published by the National Oak Flooring Manufacturers' Association.

Milk or Food Stains—Rub the spot with a damp cloth. Rub dry and re-wax.

Grease or Oil Stains—Saturate cotton with hydrogen peroxide and place it on the stain. Then saturate a second layer of cotton with ammonia and place it over the first. Repeat until the stain disappears.

Ink Spots—Clean the spot and surrounding area with No. 1 steel wool dampened with a good floor cleaner or mineral spirits. If the spot remains, rub with fine sandpaper, feathering out three to four inches onto the surrounding area. Re-wax and polish. Should this be ineffective, apply a solution of one ounce of oxalic acid to one quart of water. The solution is poisonous, so wear rubber gloves. Let it stand one hour, then rinse with clear water. Repeat if the spot remains.

Should the second application fail, sand the area with No. 00 sandpaper and apply a matching finish, feathering out into the surrounding area. Buff lightly with No. 00 steel wool after finish is dry. Then apply a second coat of finish, let dry and re-wax. If the spot resists this treatment, replace the affected flooring piece.

Cigarette Burns—Unless they are too deep, they often can be removed merely by rubbing them with steel wool. Soap and water on the steel wool make it more effective.

Magazine Rack Easy To Build

WATCHING a habit grow — especially a good one—from a small beginning to maturity is one of the most rewarding experiences in life, for both the one concerned and those around him.

That is why many parents feel the urge to have their children do constructive things with their hands. Beginning, of course, with something fairly easy to develop self-confidence, progress can be measured as the child attempts more complicated tasks.

A good starting place for a young lad is building the magazine rack pictures here. It is easy to make when the simple, step-by-step pattern offered is used.

The pattern for this attractive piece of furniture is traced on wood, sawed and assembled. It can be made from stock size lumber, so readily available from your lumber dealer or from odds and ends usually found around the average home.

The building craftsman will be intrigued by the story behind the origin of this unusual magazine rack. Tell him the idea for it came from the blacksmith's tool box where the village smithy kept nails and knives in the upper tray, horseshoes, hammers and files in the lower part.

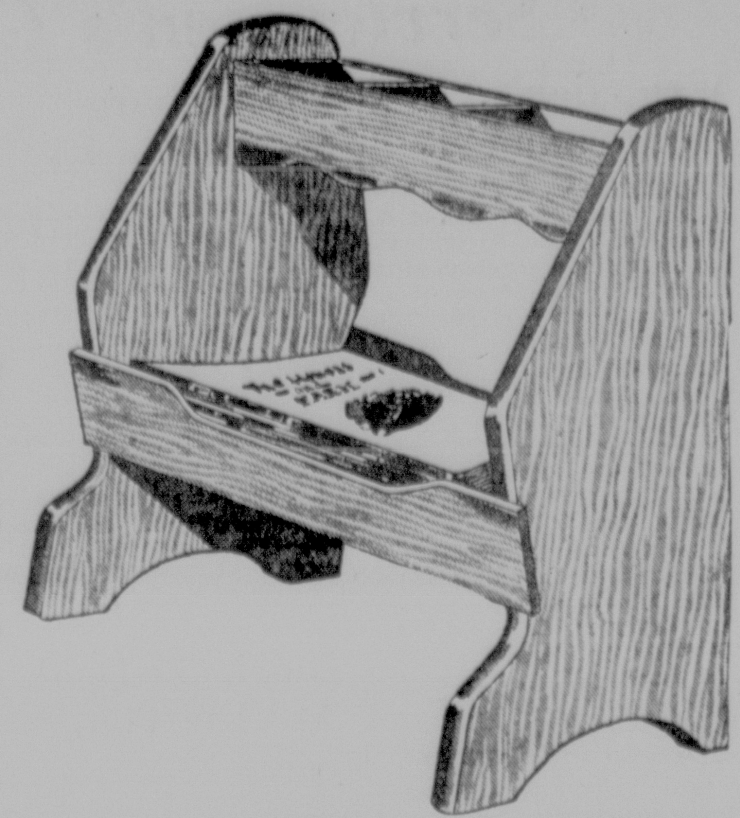

Actually the rack's upper compartment can be used for ashtrays. The novelty of the rack, plus the "home talent" making it, will be a source of comment by all visitors.

If there are several youngsters in the family, urge each to make one of these attractive, serviceable stands. With increased reading in most homes, several racks are handy additions to den, rumormus room, patio etc.

Send 25 cents (in coin check or money order) for Magazine Rack, pattern no. 25 to The Daily Record, P. O. Box 215, Pleasantville, New York.

Send additional 35 cents for new catalog illustrating over 300 other build it yourself projects and home improvements.

IT IS AN UNUSUAL EVENT when a Jersey cow has twins. It is also unusual that they both be heifers. And it is more unusual that the cow's first calves are twins. At the Willard Croft farm, Greentown, all of these "unusuals" came true when Henrietta produced the very likely "Haile" and "Hearty," twin Jersey calves with cinnamon-colored complexions, springy legs, and boundless energy. Workers 65 Or Older Eligible For SS Benefits

ARE YOU 65 or older and still working? If so, have you visited your social security district office? It is possible that you and your family may be eligible to receive some social security benefits even though you continue to work after you are 65.

Harry R. Peterman, manager of the Easton Social Security Office, says that because of recent changes in the social security law, there are many Stroudsburg area people in the approximately one million persons 65 or older throughout the country who would be able to collect some payment despite their earnings. In order to receive any benefits, first file claims at the social security office.

Before 1961, a person eligible for social security benefits could not receive any benefits if his total earnings for the year amounted to more than $2080 and if during the year he either earned over $100 a month wages or rendered substantial services in self-employment in each month.

Depends On Earnings

Beginning with 1961, the amount a person can get in benefits when he works after he files a social security application depends on his yearly earnings and on the amount of benefits payable to him and his family.

A person who earns $1,200 or less during the year can get all his benefits. This is the same provision as was in effect before 1961. Also, a person can get a social security check for any month of the year in which he neither earns wages of more than $100 nor renders substantial services in self-employment. This is true despite the amount of his total yearly earnings. A person 72 or older can receive all benefits due on his past wages regardless how much he works and earns.

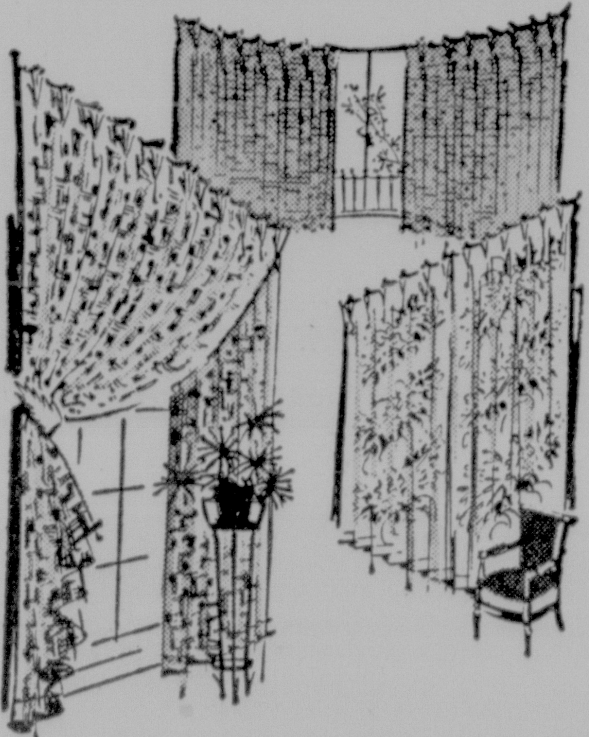

Further information on how earnings affect benefits is available at your local social security office Peterman says. Many working people over 65 will find it to their advantage to file social

Miss Sandra Ann Huffman Bride Of Lt. R. A. Gordon

An Saturday, Sept. 16, at 2 o'clock in the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church, 175 friends and relatives witnessed the wedding of Miss Sandra Ann Huffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carlyle Huffman, of Marshalls Creek, to Robert A. Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gordon, also of Marshalls Creek.

Rev. Frank Wingerter performed the ceremony. Ernest Michelfelder was organist. Miss Marilyn Nittel sang "I Love Thee" and "The Greatest of These is Love" preceding the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a long gown of peau de soie embroidered in Alencon lace and crystal beads with a chapel train. Her pill-box hat, trimmed with beads matching her dress, held an elbow-length veil of silk illusion. She carried cymbidium orchids and gardenias on a white ribbon.

Her sister, Mrs. Lester W. Diemick II, was matron of honor. She wore a dress of antique gold peau de soie with velvet and carried a cascade bouquet of rust-colored mums and pompons.

Another sister, Susan Huffman, was junior bridesmaid. Two classmates, Miss Yvonne Smith, of East Stroudsburg, and Miss Judy Vaholic, of Scranton, were bridesmaids. They wore dresses of leaf green peau de soie, in similar design and carried cascade bouquets of yellow mums and pompons.

Edward Gordon served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Robert and Jay Huffman, brothers of the bride; Ross Gordon, brother of the bridegroom; and Charles Torpy, Alexandria, Va., fraternity brother of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a royal blue print dress with royal blue accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a wine print dress with black accessories. They both had corsages of cream-colored shasta mums.

The grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Earl Primrose, East Stroudsburg, wore a gold and black print dress. The bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Grover Gordon, of Ocean City, N. J., wore a navy blue dress. They both had corsages of tiny orchid mums.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at Village Inn, Marshalls Creek.

For her going-away outfit, the bride wore a dress of moss green dacton with brown accessories and an orchid corsage. After two weeks in Florida they will be at home in Marshalls Creek.

They are both graduates of East Stroudsburg High School. The bride was graduated in June from the University of Pennsylvania Hospital School of Nursing.

Mrs. Gordon was graduated in June from Rutgers University. At that time, he was also commissioned as second lieutenant in the U. S. Army.

Stroud Students Sit In On Hot U. N. Assembly

Forty Stroud Union junior high students yesterday sat in on the explosive United Nations General Assembly meeting yesterday as part of their studies on World History and World Culture.

The bus trip had been planned in the comparative calm of last June and their reservations were honored even though seats for United Nations functions are now at a premium due to the present world crises.

For a while there was some doubt that the Assembly would assemble at all with the Security Council in session. However the Assembly finally opened about 12:30 and for an hour and a half the students sat in on the proceedings.

They were there for the speech by the delegate for Yugoslavia, and during the even more challenging speech of the delegate from Ghana who challenged everything and everybody: Portugal, South Africa, and the Russian's proposed troika secretariat.

A 45 minute briefing and a tour of the U. N. followed. The group was accompanied by Miss Lillian Stark and John Kupiec of the faculty. It is the first of four trips scheduled for the year.

Committee Planning State Convention

As hosts to the 1962 convention of the Pennsylvania Democratic Women's Clubs, the local convention committee is starting work early on plans for the convention to be held at Tamiment in the Poconos in June.

Mrs. Wilma Rogalski, Stroudsburg, convention chairman, presided at the committee meeting held at the Stroud Twp. Municipal building.

With 250 Democratic Women's Clubs in the state, each of them sending delegates, the committee, composed of representatives of Pike, Carbon, Wayne and Monroe face a big job. Mrs. Rogalski warned.

She announced the following committee members: co-chairmen, Mrs. Margaret Stansberry, Carbon County; Mrs. Anna Mae Giles, Wayne; Mrs. Olive Riedmiller, Pike and Mrs. Bessie Altomero, Monroe.

Local committees named included Mrs. Charlotte Westbrook, treasurer; Mrs. Barbara Nabors, secretary; Mrs. Mary Jane McCluskey, publicity; Mrs. Grace Palmer, registration.

The next meeting of the convention committee will be held Oct. 16 at 7:30 at the courthouse at Jim Thorpe.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

Somedays we get more family fare than on other days and this was one of them. There was, of course, the family affair of the Crippled Children's luncheon which, while ranking as general news, has the family touch that Clarence Rutt and his daughter, Mrs. Stephen Gereck, will be the Easter Seal team this Easter.

And one way I found out about that relationship was because Mrs. Gereck wanted to buy one of those beautiful handkerchiefs which Mrs. Adams, herself a shut-in, makes by the hundreds for the Crippled children, and had to borrow a quarter from her father.

Then, of course, there was the good news about Jim and Evelyn Ifft moving back to commuting distance of home. There's even more of a family touch than the story tells, since Dr. Jim will be working at Princeton with Dr. Kaufman who is Elizabeth Flagler's husband.

Moreover, Sallie Ferreebe is following in her mother's footsteps by being chosen publicity chairman for her youth fellowship. Her signature tickled me: Sallie Ferreebe Jr., it was.

And a lot of families will be much more aware of the United Nations proceedings this week since some 40 of their children sat in on the Assembly session yesterday and have briefed them well on Ghana.

I have a sort of personal interest in Africa myself since I got a letter from Jack Gellins. He and his wife and baby are still in Nigeria but are nearing the end of their tour of duty. I'll bet his list of speaking engagements will be a mile long when he gets home since his story of their experiences have made such interesting reading.

While we're in the family mood, we might spare a sigh for Bill Roeder's bride—Imagine sending a brand new husband off to a tour of duty at the South Pole!

Which reminds me that I'm expecting some family company myself this weekend and if I don't get the beds stripped and the house picked up from the last contingent, they'll think they've landed in hurricane country.

REV. AND MRS. EDWARD T. HORN, Tannersville, look back over 50 golden years, of which 30 were spent in Japan, and forward to retirement and the careers of their eight children.

Horns To Be Honored On 50th Anniversary Today

Rev. and Mrs. Edward T. Horn, of Tannersville, are today celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary at a reception in Allentown, surrounded by many of their eight children and 25 grandchildren.

It is a year of anniversaries for the Horns. He was graduated from Mt. Airy Lutheran Seminary in June 50 years ago, and this summer was honored by the Lutheran Ministerium on his 50 years in the service of the church. It also marks the year of his retirement from the active ministry.

They were married in Fox Chase, Md., where his bride of 50 years ago, the former Laura Rossiter, was born and spent most of her life. The night after their marriage they prepared to leave for Japan where 30 of their years were spent and where six of their eight children were born. The other two were born during home furloughs.

It was an unexpected twist for a romance which began on the boardwalk of Ocean City, N. J. Miss Rossiter was with her uncle, a noted Episcopal rector who was a featured speaker at the Ocean Grove Assembly. Young Horn, working in home missions, complemented him on his "simple sermon" which so delighted the rector that he invited him home for dinner.

However, it was not until two years later that the two young people met again when, as a student at Mount Airy Seminary, he also served as night librarian and she as assistant librarian and they worked together over the card catalogue.

After his graduation and ordination, they were married and left immediately for Japan which they still feel is home. Only the outbreak of war closed their birth are:

Isabella, now wife of Rev. Richard Clinton, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Allentown, who have five daughters; Dr. Edward Horn, Jr., Tannersville, who has three sons and three daughters; Dr. Fordyce Horn, who as a Ph.D. is with General Electric in Schenectady, and has three children; Frank Buchman Horn, at home.

Then there is Louise, now Mrs. Harold Earley, wife of a mortician in Allentown, and herself a school dietitian, who has three children; Lt. Col. Maurice Horn, who is on the ROTC faculty at Drexel Institute, has four children; Mary, wife of Rev. James Reusswig of Antioch, Calif., who has two daughters (they visited her recently but they will not be home for the party today); and finally Rev. Laurence Horn, of Reading, who has two daughters.

Following a social get-together over dessert and coffee at 7, there will be a business meeting at which the local study for the year will be chosen.

Maris Finally Hits 60; Yanks Win

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Maris blasted his 60th home run of the season Tuesday night but it came four games too late to tie the official Babe Ruth's 34-year-old record for 134 games.

Maris connected with a 2-2 pitch by Baltimore right-hander Jack Fisher and sent it into the upper right field stands in the third inning. It came in the Yankees' 15th game of the season, including one tie.

Commissioner Ford Frick had set 134 team decisions as the limit for Maris to tie or surpass Ruth's 1927 record. He does become only the second player in major league history to reach the magic 60 mark. Frick has ruled that Mar-record books as a standard for a 162-game schedule.

Sheldon Wins

His homer also helped the Yanks beat the Orioles, 3-2, with Ronnie Sheldon winning in relief of Bud Daley.

The 22-year-old, 6-foot-2 Fisher also served up Ted Williams his 521st career home run last year, his record will go down in the

After he hit it on Sept. 20, 1960, Williams promptly retired.

Maris fouled off the first two pitches to fall behind Fisher, 0 and 2. Then he took two balls and fouled one into the dirt before connecting. The ball appeared to strike a concrete step and rebound back onto the field.

Maris has four more games remaining on the expanded American League program in which to surpass Ruth's total. The Yankees meet the Orioles again Wednesday, are idle Thursday, then close out the 162-game schedule with a three-game set with Boston.

Maris' 60th came against the same team that gave up No. 59 last Wednesday at Baltimore when Roger crashed a 2-1 pitch by Milt Pappas in the third inning for the homer that left him one shy of Ruth.

Fisher and Triandos; Daley, Sheldon (7) and Blanchard, W.—Sheldon (10-5), L—Fisher (10-13). Home run — New York, Maris (60).

Reds Clinch Flag In Junior League

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds are the new champions of the National League. Their 6-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Tuesday coupled with Los Angeles' 8-0 loss to Pittsburgh Tuesday night assured the Reds of their first flag in 21 years.

Two-run homers by Frank Robinson and Jerry Lynch gave the Reds an uphill victory over the Cubs and assured them of a title tie.

End Race

Several hours later — after the Reds had arrived in Cincinnati to celebrate the event — the world-champion Pirates upended the Dodgers to end the pennant race.

Lynch's blast in the eighth inning broke a 3-3 tie brought about by Robinson's game-tying drive in the seventh inning. Winning pitcher Jim Brosnan, working in relief, singled home an insurance run in the ninth.

The Reds, who finished sixth last season 28 games behind the Pirates, fell behind 3-0 in the early innings. But as has been their custom this season, they fought back to finally defeat the troublesome Cubs.

Cub starter Bob Anderson seemed well on the way toward maintaining Chicago's season-long jinx over the Reds, who trailed the Cubs 12-9 entering the final meeting between the teams.

Anderson held the Reds to one hit before catcher John Edwards led off the sixth with his second home run since his first major league start here June 28.

The Reds tied it 3-3 in the seventh when Gordy Coleman walked and Frank Robinson followed with his 37th home run of the season.

Two were out in the Cincinnati eighth when Vada Pinson singled to right and Lynch, who makes a specialty of homering against the Cubs, joined a 3-1 count over the right field wall.

Robinson's leadoff two-bagger and Brosnan's single with two out, shoved across the sixth Red run in the ninth.

Rain Stalls Practice For Yank Cuppers

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Rain held up practice Tuesday as the U.S. Davis Cup tennis team began its final preparations for the interzone finals against India this weekend.

Only Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md., appeared to have regained his timing and general poise on the gravel courts after the wearying plane trip from the United States. The other team members, Charles McKinley of St. Louis, Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., and Martin Riessen, of Evanston, Ill., got in some good shots but need a little more time to settle down.

The team's nonplaying captain, David L. Freed of Salt Lake City, expressed confidence his young charges would be equal to the Indians despite the disadvantages of playing in a strange land.

The teams look about even for the matches beginning Saturday, Freed said.

Volpe Grabs Golf Tourney, Equals Mark

JERRY VOLPE of Water Gap, tied the Pocono Professional Golf Assn.'s 18-hole record of 69 in winning the group's pro-am at Water Gap Country Club Monday.

Volpe had nine-hole scores of 35-34 in edging John Serafin of Fox Hill, C. C. by two strokes. Serafin and host pro Sam Kinder also had 69s in PPGA play. A summer resident of Water Gap, Volpe was formerly head professional at Englewood, C. C. Engelwood, N. J.

Tied for third place in the pro division were Harold Dymond, Lakeway Driving Range, Dallas, and John Chimenti, Shawnee Inn.

Pro-Amateur Tie

Serafin and Volpe, along with their amateur partners tied for first place in the gross division of the pro-am: Serafin and Tom Cella and Volpe and Mike Cessna, USGA National Seniors Champ, each had 67. The two pros also brought amateur partners home in a tie for third, Volpe and George Laubach and Serafin and Merf Roth posted 68.

Volpe and Fred Swenson won the net division with 63, followed by Dick Smith, Indian Mountain and Dr. Ben Falcone, 66. Tied for third at 68 were Dymond and Stan Starkey, Chimenti and Pooch Allen, Serafin and T. Kelein and Mike Megargel, Megargel's Golf Courses and Carl Mottis.

Pro scores:

Jerry Volpe, Water Gap, 35-34-69.

John Serafin, Fox Hill, 34-37-71.

John Chimenti, Shawnee Inn, 35-38-73.

Harold Dymond, Dallas, 38-35-73.

Sam Kinder, Water Gap, 38-37-75.

Ted Bickel, Harkers Hollow, 38-37-75.

Vince Vanovitch, Tamm, 40-39-79.

Jack Weingart, Tamm, 39-41-80.

Dick Smith, Indian Mountain, 41-41-82.

Mike Megargel, Megargel's Golf Courses, 45-39-84.

East Title Of State Loop Could Be Decided Saturday

CHAMPIONSHIP honors in the Eastern Division of the Pennsylvania State College Football Conference will probably be decided Saturday night when East Stroudsburg State College meets powerful West Chester.

The game will be played at East Stroudsburg Memorial Stadium, with an 8 p.m. kick-off.

In order to take care of an expected large advance sale, East Stroudsburg State will sell tickets today, Thursday and Friday in the athletic office in the gymnasium. Today, tickets will be sold from 3 until 5 p.m. Thursday's hours are 3 to 4 p.m. and Friday from 2 to 3 p.m. Only adult tickets will be sold at the athletic office. Student tickets will be sold at the gate on game night. The booths will open at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Both Unbeaten

Both schools go into Saturday's game with unbeaten records, although West Chester has not played a conference game. The Rams, rated the top small college team in the East in a national weekly magazine, knocked off Ithaca 13-6 last week.

East Stroudsburg whipped Millersville 39-7 in its first game and blanked Kutztown 45-0 last week. The two wins put East Stroudsburg on top of the Eastern Division.

West Chester, a heavy favorite to win the conference, defeated East Stroudsburg 21-0 last year, with all the scoring coming in the first half.

It will be almost the same team that goes against East Stroudsburg. The backfield from last year is intact, with Jim Bonkoski at quarter, Jim Pribula and Paul Borsa at halfback and Joe (Cyclone) Iacone at fullback.

Great Year

As a sophomore last year, Iacone, whose home town is Radnor, was a second team selection on the Associated Press Little All-America, and was also second team NAIA All-America; All-East Small College team; first team AP all-state; first team, Pennsylvania State College Conference.

The 5-11, 185 pound Iacone was also the leading ground gainer in the National Assn. Intercollegiate Athletics and the N.C.A.A. small college rushing leader.

Bonkoski, a senior from Conshohocken, ranked among the national leaders in passing and Pribula was one of the nation's top scorers.

East Stroudsburg coach Jack Gregory has two injury question marks. Art Shisler injured his right hand in the Kutztown game and while preliminary x-rays do not show a break, additional x-rays will be taken Friday.

Russ Rogers, called by Gregory, "one of the best blockers on the squad," twisted his knee against Kutztown and has been unable to practice this week.

Rogers put on pads Monday but the knee began to bother him after only a few minutes on the field and he could not continue. Rogers also does the place kicking for the Warriors.

Snead Dropped From Ryder Cup Team; Draws $500 Fine

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Sam Snead was dropped from the Ryder Cup team and replaced by Doug Ford, officials of the Professional Golfers Association said Tuesday night.

The announcement came after a day-long meeting of top PGA brass at the association's Dunedin headquarters.

Contacted in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Snead said he had not been contacted by the PGA officials.

Snead was dropped for playing without permission in a pro-am tournament at Cincinnati last Saturday.

Five others, Tommy Bolt, Dick Mayer, Chick Harbert, Lew Worsham and Walter Burkemo, along with Snead, were fined $500 and suspended for six months by the PGA for playing at Cincinnati while the PGA-sponsored Portland, Ore., Open was under way.

Of the six, only Snead had been chosen a member of the 10-man Ryder Cup squad that plays the top professionals of Great Britain in England next month in their biennial matches.

Layne was injured Sunday in the closing minutes of the Steelers' 17-14 loss to the New York Giants at Pitt Stadium.

A spokesman for the National Football League team said Layne's

Transfer Taxes. Fees

By William A. Doyle

Q. You sometimes mention "small transfer taxes and fees" on the sale of stock. Just how "small" are these charges? What "small" to you may be "big" to some people.

A. Oh, I doubt that. Transfer taxes and the SEC fee don't become big, unless there is a really big amount of money involved in a stock transaction. They are paid by the person out of whose name the stock is transferred — the seller, if the stock is sold or the donor, if the stock is a gift.

First, there is a Federal transfer tax. This amounts to four cents on each $100 (or fraction thereof) of the actual value of shares sold or transferred but in no case more than eight cents per share.

Some states have transfer taxes. These apply to transactions which take place in the state.

In New York it's one cent a share for stock under $5 a share; two cents a share for stock between $5 and $10; three cents a share for stock between $10 and $20; and four cents a share for stock at $20 or more.

In Florida it's 10 cents per $100 of par value or per share on "no par" stock regardless of selling price. In South Carolina it's four cents and in Texas three and one-half cents — both on the same schedule as Florida.

In addition, there is an SEC fee of one cent for each $500 (or fraction thereof) involved in a transaction. But this applies only to transactions on registered stock exchanges.

Q. When an investor buys shares of a mutual fund, it is my understanding that somebody pays a Federal transfer tax on the transaction. Who?

A. There may or may not be a Federal transfer tax — depending upon the circumstances. When an investor buys new shares of a mutual fund, the fund issues the shares. At that point, the fund pays a Federal "issuance tax."

Then, if the investor makes his purchase through a dealer (a brokerage firm) the dealer pays the Federal transfer tax and any state transfer tax that is due. The fund actually issues the shares to the dealer and the dealer transfers the shares to the investor.

However, if the investor buys shares of a mutual fund which has its own sales organization and he buys through that "captivity sales organization," there is no transfer tax due. There was no transfer involved. The same thing applies if the investor buys shares of one of the "no-load" funds, which has neither dealers nor its own sales organization.

Now, if the investor has a contractual plan for the accumulation of mutual fund shares, there is no transfer tax. But, in most contractual plans, the investor pays the issuance tax. It is part of the "creation charges" of such a plan.

Remember that there are no transfer taxes due when an investor redeems his shares — turns them in to the fund and receives cash.

But, if the investor transfers mutual fund shares from his name to someone (as a gift, for instance) he must pay the transfer tax.

There's an interesting angle to this. All states now have laws which make the gift of securities to minors quite simple. In certain states the laws are set up in such a way that a Federal transfer tax must be paid by the donor on all gift securities.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

More State Korean Vets May Be Eligible For Bonus

HARRISBURG — An act of the Legislature recently signed by Governor Lawrence amending the Pennsylvania Korean Veterans Bonus law may make an additional 30,000 state veterans eligible for the bonus payments, officials said yesterday.

The new legislation (House Bill 1749 — Printers No. 2713) amends the bonus law sections pertaining to so-called "career servicemen," disqualified from the payments unless they meet special provisions. Career servicemen are defined, for purposes of the bonus, as veterans who had four years or more continuous military service immediately prior to the outbreak of the Korean Conflict on June 25th, 1950.

Under the original bonus act, such veterans were not eligible for compensation unless they had actually served in the Korea combat zone and were awarded the Korean Service Medal. Officials estimate that some 2,500 applications received thus far were rejected under this part of the law.

The amendment removes the Korean Service Medal requirement and specifies that such "career servicemen" may be awarded the bonus provided they can prove that they were legal residents of Pennsylvania on Jan. 1, 1961.

Other qualifications for the payments, which are unchanged, are that the veteran must have been a legal resident of Pennsylvania at the time of his entry into the service, and he must have served at least 90 days on active duty between June 25, 1950, and July 27, 1953.

Payments are made at the rate of $10 for each month's service between June 25, 1950, and Jan. 27, 1954. Holders of the Korean Service Medal are awarded an additional $5 for each month's foreign service during the same period.

The law also specifies that the combined amount of a veteran's World War II and Korean Conflict compensations should not exceed $500.

The Bonus Bureau said veterans declared ineligible because of the law's provisions regarding career servicemen should file another application for reconsideration under the amended law. Applications and instructions are available from the Korean Conflict Veterans Compensation Bureau, Room 207, South Office Building, Harrisburg, Pa.

New X-ray Unit Is Developed

NEW YORK (AP)—Westinghouse Electric Corp. introduced a new X-ray unit which, it said, occupies only a third as much floor space as conventional X-ray apparatus.

The firm said the new unit can speed the flow of patients through X-ray departments, helping hospitals to meet the rapidly growing work load in radiography. Another feature, it said, is that accident victims arriving at a hospital can be X-rayed without being removed from a "mobile stretcher" attached to the unit.

Tyrrell Seeks High Court Change

PITTSBURGH — Counsel for Lewis W. Tyrrell of Northampton County told the Pennsylvania Supreme Court yesterday he was improperly convicted of first-degree murder in the shotgun death of his wife.

Atty. William C. Cassebaum asked the court to vacate the conviction, contending Tyrrell was guilty of no more than second-degree murder.

Dist. Atty. Andrew L. Herster Jr. of Northampton County argued that the conviction should be sustained.

The court took the case under advisement and will hand down a ruling later.

Tyrrell, 40, pleaded guilty to a general charge of murder in the 1960 slaying of his wife, Blanche, 53, in their home at Upper Mount Bethel Township near Easton.

Northampton County Court heard testimony to determine the degree of guilt, and found him guilty of first-degree murder. He was sentenced to life imprisonment last May.

Governor Approves Raise In State Authority Borrowing

HARRISBURG (AP) — A $257 million increase in the General State Authority's borrowing capacity was approved by Gov. Lawrence Saturday.

The governor, in an accompanying statement, said the act "will permit Pennsylvania to move ahead on a number of important fronts, in education, in the development of our parks system, in providing bed space for the mentally ill, in the curbing of juvenile delinquency, in port development, in water conservation and in dozens of other areas."

The measure increases the GSA's borrowing limit from $621,431,400 to $879,173,000. The boost becomes effective in 60 days.

The GSA estimated that from inception of the projects specified in the law until construction begins there is a lag of nearly two years while plans and specifications are made and contracts are awarded.

The projects listed in the legislation are located in 57 of the state's 67 counties.

The governor also approved legislation tightening up the state's laws on the taxation of mobile homes and house trailers.

The measures require that mobile homes must be taxed as real property on the basis of actual market value.

One of the new laws also bans discriminatory taxation of mobile homes and trailers, while another spells out the tax liability of the owner of property on which mobile homes are located.

ADVANCED THRUST

Always point forward for smooth-straight going

It puts the engine ahead like the tip of an arrow • It tames "wind wander" and road sway • It sweeps you forward in a hush of luxury • It turns the floor hump into foot space.

WHAT IT IS—Buick's big new move: It positions the great new Wildcat V-8 and Turbine Drive way up front over Buick's front wheels.

WHAT IT DOES—As the engine went forward, the floor hump went DOWN. And, the forward weight makes wheel response far quicker, cornering far surer, ride far smoother.

WHY YOU'LL LOVE IT—It's the closest you can come to sports car handling in a passenger car. Distances shrink before its 3/4-G thrust. Hills disappear. Lean on curves is gone because the frame's gone wider. Winds don't make you wander. It's going at its Buick best!
